ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce JOHN M. WAUGH as a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney of the 32nd Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party in the primary of August, 1915.

We are authorized to announce H. C. SULLIVAN, of Lawrence county, as a candidate for the nomination for Commonwealth's Attorney for the 32nd Judicial district, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

G. W. CASTLE FOR COMMONWEALTH'S ATTORNEY.

G. W. Castle, of Lawrence county, announces his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Commonwealth's Attorney for the 32nd Judicial District, primary election in August 1915, earnestly requesting the support of all Democrats of the district.

We are authorized to announce W. D. O'NEAL, JR., as a candidate for the nomination for Circuit Judge of the 32nd Judicial district, subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

CONGRESSMAN W. J. FIELDS is a candidate for re-election, and respectfully asks for the votes of all Democrats of the Ninth Congressional district at the primary to be held August 1, 1914.

The Thread Trust has been probed by the Government and several stitches have been taken in it.

It will take Kermit Roosevelt two days to get married. The religious ceremony will occur June 11 and the civil functions the day before.

In Chicago last week a bull calf was sold by auction for $20,000. The NEWS has seen some of the two-legged sort that wouldn't bring twenty cents.

The school book commission is hard at work at Frankfort adopting books for the common schools of the State. The list will be completed this week.

Gov. McCreary is speaking once or twice a week in the interest of his candidacy for United States Senator. During July he will speak almost every day.

Intense heat from the Missouri Valley to the Alleghany Mountains caused great suffering Tuesday, and nearly everywhere all June heat records were broken.

Attorney General Garnett has given an opinion that Senator Bradley died exactly seventy days before the August primary, hence nominations to fill the vacancy must be made in that primary.

Notwithstanding a largely attended meeting of the Progressives of Kentucky indicated Tuesday that there would be nothing in common with Republicans, a committee of the last party was named to negotiate with the Mooers.

Confusion as to the number of persons who perished in the Empress of Ireland disaster last week has been one of the distressing features of the tragedy, and the uncertainty is further emphasized when the figures finally declared by the Canadian Pacific Steamship Co. officials raised the death list from 969 to 1,024.

The first flat disagreement between the envoys at the mediation conference at Niagara Falls came Tuesday when the American envoys refused to agree to the plan submitted by the Mexicans for the forming of the provisional government. Huerta wants to be allowed to name his successor as Minister of Foreign Affairs in his Cabinet and then have him elevated to the presidency. As this would involve the virtual recognition of Huerta the envoys of the United States opposed it. An extension of time to await the Carranza reply was granted at the request of the American envoys. The Administration at Washington seems confident that Carranza delegates will be sent to the mediation conference yet.

GOV. MCCREARY MAY HAVE LOUISVILLE HEADQUARTERS.

Headquarters probably will be opened in Louisville by Governor McCreary. He has been urged by some of his advisers to establish headquarters for convenience in directing the organization of his campaign for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

Governor McCreary will decide about the headquarters upon his return from Shelbyville, where he will speak Monday. He will go to Louisville this afternoon and spend the night there before going to Campbellsville to make a speech tomorrow. Other dates announced by Governor McCreary are: Nicholasville, June 13; Georgetown, June 15; Murray, June 22; West Liberty, June 25; Owenton, June 27; Richmond, July 6.

No question will be raised about the order on which the names of candidates for the senatorial nominations will go on the August primary ballot. The new law fixes that. The candidates will alternate by districts, alphabetically.

CONGRESSMAN W. J. FIELDS.

Hon. W. J. Fields has formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Ninth District, to be voted for at the August primary.

Mr. Fields merits another term in Congress because of the faithful and honorable service rendered his constituents. He is always on the job, alive to interests of the people of his district. His straightforward course in Congress has won for him the highest respect of his colleagues. He is industrious, sober, honorable to the last degree. His experience in Congress has now been sufficient to enable him to get results for the people of the Ninth district. He is proving this every day. A new member is at a disadvantage. It takes time to get the necessary experience, and it is not every man who can gain the high standing which Mr. Fields has won by his worthy course.

It is now settled beyond dispute that the candidates for the short term nomination to fill out the unexpired portion of the late Senator W. O. Bradley's term from November to March 4, 1915, must be nominated in the primary. In order to protect himself Assistant Secretary of State Cecil H. Vansant, with whom the candidates file their petitions, asked Attorney General Garnett whether the short term candidates are to be nominated in the primary.

LARGE CROWDS GREET THE GOVERNOR AT JACKSON.

Circuit court being in session at Jackson, an adjournment Monday from 11:30 to 2:30 o'clock was made so the people could hear Governor McCreary address them solely in the interest of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator. If the size of his audience be an indication of his popularity, and many claim that it is a forecast of that coming event, he is sure to carry Breathitt, for the crowd filled the large courtroom to its utmost capacity. Wherever he has addressed the people he has made votes that will rally to his standard when the times comes.—Hazel Green Herald.

GLENWOOD.

The drouth is broken with a good rain. Crops and grass growing fine. Farmers are busy in their crops and everything looks prosperous but the roads. The winter left some of them in bad condition.

A LAKE TRIP.

Travel to be enjoyable must be restful, and at this season of the year whether your trip takes you East or West break its monotony, either at Cleveland or Buffalo, by a refreshing night's trip across Lake Erie on a veritable floating hotel with every convenience for comfort and enjoyment. C. & B. Line steamers leave either city every evening and arrive early the next morning.

The fame of the Great Ship "Seeandbee" which was added to this splendid fleet last season is attracting to the route a vast number of travelers to enjoy the delightful lake trip and, at the same time, inspect her magnificent interior decorations, wonderful illuminating system, and other interesting features. The "SEEANDBEE" is the largest and "most costly passenger steamer on inland waters of the world; length 500 feet, breadth 98 feet 6 inches, 510 staterooms and parlors accommodating 1500 passengers, equalling in sleeping capacity the largest hotels of the country, and she can carry 6,000 people, the population of a good sized town.

The fares for this lake trip are less than by rail, and also any railroad tickets reading between Cleveland and Buffalo are accepted for transportation on C. & B. Line steamers.

BALAOO.

LIFE TERM FOR

"KATE" TOLLIVER.

Lexington, Ky., June 6.—"Kate" Tolliver was given a life sentence at Olive Hill, Ky., last night for the murder of Lafayette Fraley. The killing was the result of an old feud. Tolliver, as a boy of twelve years, gained country wide notoriety twenty-five years ago when, almost single handed, he fought with rifle and revolver a party of regulators, commanded by Boone Logan, who, under State sanction, attacked Tolliver's brother, Craig Tolliver, and his clan at Morehead, Ky., to end the feud reign of outlaws. The battle raged almost all day, and several on both sides were killed. It was the most sanguinary battle ever fought in Kentucky feud history.

After Craig Tolliver was killed, Kate stood over him and fought the Logan party until captured.

TRAYSER PIANOS.

So many talents are wasted and so much enthusiasm has but a transitory result for want of a little patience and endurance, but the spirit that prompted George L. Traysar to build his first piano in Indianapolis was not characterized by such qualities. His determined will, his energy and patience won success, and the Traysar piano which he placed upon the market in 1849 has been improved upon as experience and expert knowledge dictate until today it is an instrument with a distinctive and established demand.

Combining a rare inventive skill with the experience gained through his apprenticeship in the factories of Germany, he succeeded in perfecting an instrument to a degree appreciated for its quality of tone and improved action by contemporary musicians.

Eventually the plant was moved from Indianapolis to Ripley, O., and later to Mayville, Kentucky, but because of limited facilities and lack of adequate accommodations, his further progress demanded affiliation with men of wider experience and capital. Mr. James M. Starr, of Richmond, Indiana, purchased an interest in the concern, moving the plant to that place in 1872.

Although the Traysar piano carried off honors at frequent expositions, there were so many difficulties encountered from the very beginning that no rapid progress was made until the year 1872, when a permanent basis for future growth was established. The Starr Piano Co., the manufacturers and distributors of this product, have spared neither energy nor expense in perfecting this instrument and placing it in the front rank of public esteem.

Their plant at Richmond, Indiana, besides being one of the largest piano factories in the most complete in the world. Every possible device which might lead to greater efficiency in placed at the command of the builders. Workmen skilled in the use of tools and understanding the theory of piano construction exercise the greater care in putting their knowledge into actual practice. The use of carefully selected and prepared materials and the most up-to-date machinery, are other important factors in the manufacture of this instrument.

Because of its rich, resonant tone and responsive action, the Traysar piano has won for itself a reputation as an instrument for school and concert work. The fact that it has for years withstood the severe test of ten hours practice a day in hundreds of musical colleges, the hardest use to which a piano may be placed, is instrumental in proving no piano in the world is constructed more scientifically or with greater durability and musical effectiveness.

A musical instrument that meets the requirements of the modern American home, however, is the Traysar Player-piano. This is not an ordinary player-piano but the combination of an instrument, embodying every feature of the Traysar piano and the Starr type of player mechanism. In every respect this is a first-class player mechanism, thoroughly protected by patents. All of the expression which makes playing artistic is produced by means of the controlling devices. That mechanical exactness so objectionable on many players has been entirely eliminated in the Traysar player-piano.

Rarely does a musical instrument meet with such decided approval of the purchasing public. If you have spent years in mastering long difficult pieces and have reached a high degree of perfection in technique; if you appreciate and enjoy real music; or if you lack the technical ability to play even the simple pieces of popular favor, you can not help consider it a treasure compared to which its cost is most insignificant. The Traysar player-piano is a sparkling fountain of entertainment that places at the direct command of every one all the music of the world.
